

Tension Of Cold War Eased In Long Talk With Stalin

Turnip Day Session To End Shortly

Solons Start Drive To Go Home Saturday

Washington, Aug. 3 (P)—President Truman proposed to Congress today a $4,300,000,000 excess profits tax. One of its congressional sponsors said it is designed to protect the public from "peacetime profiteers."

Washington, Aug. 3 (P)—Chairman Taft of Ohio asked the Senate's Republican policy committee today to say the word on anti-inflation and civil rights legislation in the special session.

Taft told a reporter the committee's ruling may determine whether Congress goes home this week-end or sticks around for further action next week.

Before the group was a reported decision of Senate and House GOP leaders to offer a plan for hiking bank reserve requirements and restricting bank credit generally.

There apparently was no agreement on a Senate-approved bill, now in House committee, to restore the time payment buying curbs which expired last November.

Without saying what may be in the measure, Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) of the House banking committee predicted that whatever finally is offered can be passed within two days.

Truman Program Lost

"It looks like the drive is on to get out of here Saturday night," he commented.

The Senate policy group was reported being asked for its opinion on the House-approved housing bill which would boost the authorization for federal mortgage insurance by $1,600,000,000.

The bill also would step up the tax depreciation allowance on rental properties and guarantee investors in such large projects a 2.5 per cent return on their money.

This, plus the bank credit moves looked like the sum total of the Republican answer to Mr. Truman's demand for action on cost of living and housing legislation.

He did not seem likely to fare even as well on other requests. His bill to restore the excess profits tax was sent to Democratic leaders for formal introduction. Details were not immediately available, but the measure would raise $3,000,000,000 a year. There appeared to be no chance for passage.

Similarly, an attempt to bring before the Senate the anti-poll tax bill—in line with President Truman's civil rights proposals—seemed doomed to failure.

Loss was estimated at $150,000. The body of Clarence Boone, was found several hours after the fire was extinguished.

Strike Ban Arouses Turmoil For Tokyo

United States Attacked By Jap Communists

BY RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Aug. 3 (P)—Japan's Communist party intensified its attacks on the United States and the Allied occupation today as turmoil over General MacArthur's ban on strikes by government workers continued.

The Communist posters throughout the city proclaimed "we hereby declare war against Fascism and third party interference which are running berserk," and the Communist newspapers called for "a revolution against the governing class."

(By "third party interference," the posters evidently meant the Allied occupation, whose directives guide the Japanese government.)

The slogans marked the oldest development yet in a campaign of Nationalism toward which the Communists recently turned in an effort to win popular support. The double propaganda campaign obviously was intended as a fanfare for the scheduled demonstration tomorrow on the return of Communist Secretary General Kyuichi Tokuda from Kyushu. He was slightly wounded in a recent assassination attempt.

"The ruling classes," said the Communist posters, "finally revealed their imperialistic character in full by striking down Tokuda." His would-be assassin has been identified as a disillusioned former Communist, but the European Cominform recently asserted "ruling classes" engineered the attack on Tokuda.

Airliners Grounded After Crash On Hop To Western Africa

Paris, Aug. 3 (P)—Air France today grounded all airliners like the one which vanished over the South Atlantic Sunday with 52 aboard, pending an exhaustive study.

Air line officials announced last night that mechanical failure may have caused the giant six-engine flying boat to crash. They said a thorough investigation is being made in cooperation with the air ministry.

The plane was last heard from just after midnight Sunday. An intensive search is being carried on about 1,200 miles off Dakar, where it was last reported. High seas and rough winds have hampered the rescue ships and planes. The giant airliner failed to arrive at Port Etienne, Mauritania, West Africa, after taking off from Martinique in the French West Indies.

Secretary Receives Bulk of Muskegon Hotel Man's Estate

Muskegon, Mich., Aug. 3 (P)—Edward R. Swett's former secretary will receive the bulk of the late hotel operator's $125,000 estate.

His will filed for probate here yesterday left to Miss Grace M. Young $20,000 in hotel bonds, a home in Clearwater, Fla., and the residue of the estate after all bequests are made.

Swett's former wife, Edna Destination Swett, his son, Edward R. Swett, Jr., and three grand children each will receive $1, under terms of the will.

Swett ran the Occidental Hotel here for many years.

President Votes Early And Flies Back To Capital

Washington, Aug. 3 (P)—President Truman returned to the "Capital today" after a five-week-end trip to his home at Independence to vote in the Missouri primary election.

The chief executive rose early to cast his ballot in the Blue township precinct at the Memorial building.

He walked the block and a half to the voting booth. He declined to say how he voted.

Noisy Rally Opened By U.S. Communists

Wallace And Russia Get Praise From Pinks

New York, Aug. 3 (P)—American Communists jammed into Madison Square Garden last night for a noisy, demonstrative national convention of their own—highlighted by censure of both the Democrats and Republicans and praise for both Russia and Henry A. Wallace.

Speakers at the opening session of the convention, the first to be held by the group since 1945, were high party chieftains, all of whom are under federal indictment on charges of advocating the overthrow of the U. S. government by violence and force.

William Z. Foster, national chairman of the party in this country and the top leader of the group of 12 arrested two weeks ago on grand jury's charges, was the convention keynote.

Foster described both Truman and Dewey as "brazen liars who charge that the Communist party is trying to dominate the new party or to claim the credit for its formation."

He said the Democratic and Republican parties "are both dominated by Wall Street, their candidates and platforms were dictated by big business, and both are committed to American imperialism's policy of world conquest."

Stomach Ache Gone After 41-Day Fast

Detroit, Aug. 3 (P)—The best way to get rid of a stomach ache is to lose 85 pounds, says Wade Abis Liman, 59.

He ought to know. He did it. Taking only water and orange juice for 41 days, Liman's weight went down from 235 to 150 pounds. He says he had been suffering stomach pains for years, but since trying out the "old Syrian remedy" of fasting, he's felt fit as a fiddle.

DRY SUNDAY FAVORED

Grand Haven, Mich., Aug. 3 (P)—A number of "Grand Haven tavern operators have asked for a city ordinance prohibiting the sale of beer on Sundays.

They explained several operators had been violating a "gentlemen's agreement" reached by all taverns to stay closed on the Sabbath.

He started the return trip to Washington in his DC-4, "The Independence," at 8:50 a. m., E.S.T. The President, his associates said, expects to get a first-hand fill-in on diplomatic developments at Moscow aimed at easing international tension.

Both the President and his press secretary, Charles G. Ross, maintained silence on moves to persuade Prime Minister Stalin of Soviet Russia to talk over differences of the United States and western powers of Berlin and elsewhere in Europe.

Even word that Walter Bedell Smith, U. S. Ambassador, had visited the Kremlin, failed to elicit a comment from the chief executive's temporary white house here. Smith and French and British representatives sought an agreement from Stalin on a basis for settling East-West differences.

Associates said Mr. Truman is convinced the Republican-controlled Congress will deny him virtually everything he asked for in calling it into extra session in the midsummer heat of a presidential campaign year.

They said he will make his refusal to vote his price control and other recommendations his principal issue in a countrywide campaign in advance of the November election.

Russian Policemen Stoned By Germans

Clash Follows Chase For Black Marketeers

BY GEORGE BRIA

Berlin, Aug. 3 (P)—German civilians stoned Russian sector police last night when they attempted to cross into the British sector of the city in pursuit of a black marketeer. One policeman was reported injured.

There were two versions of the incident, which occurred when Soviet controlled police squadrons conducted raids against black marketeers at Potsdamer Platz, a favorite trading center.

Apparently fleeing from the police, some of the traders crossed the occupation border into the British sector to escape. Then, according to the British licensed newspaper Telegraph, Soviet controlled police entered the British area in pursuit.

"Crowds in the Postdammer Strasse lined up against the police and clashes occurred," the paper said. "There were reports that one passerby was dragged out of the British sector, manhandled by pistol-brandishing Soviet sector police and dragged off to their headquarters."

The Russian-controlled newspaper Berliner Zeitung, in its version of the incident, said one of the black marketeers sought to escape and called upon people in the streets for help.

"He shouted that he was a British sector resident and that the Soviet sector police were trying to kidnap him," the Zeitung said. "Thereupon several passers-by ran to his aid, threw stones at the police and injured one officer."

Hopes High At Meeting In Moscow

Four Powers Get Action On Berlin Crisis

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The buoyancy of the three western power envoys as they emerged from their long talk with Stalin in the Kremlin raised hope today the Russians might ease the cold war tension between the west and east.

The U. S. and French ambassadors and a special envoy of Britain talked with Soviet prime minister two and a quarter hours last night. They came out smiling and in good spirits. Stalin gave them more time than he ever has before to foreign diplomats.

Foreign Minister Molotov also was present. Walter Bedell Smith of the U. S., Frank Roberts of Britain and Yves Chataigneau of France went immediately to the American embassy for another conference. They rushed up three flights of stairs without awaiting the elevator.

Smith, after laughing banter, said: "Generalissimo Stalin and Mr. Molotov received us all at a meeting. There probably will be a communiqué to that effect tonight."

Capitals Cautious

The communiqué was devoid of news. The western power capitals were silent lest premature talk ruin future prospects.

The feeling was general that the ambassadors told Stalin something like this:

The United States, Britain and France desire deeply to cooperate with Russia on a reasonable, friendly basis. Cooperation works both ways. The governments of the western powers will not be intimidated. Berlin is a four-power city, and Russia may not have control of it short of war. The Russian land blockade there must be lifted before any talks about solving other differences over Germany, Austria, China, Japan, Korea, Trieste and the like.

Cautious optimism prevailed in London. But there was caution against wishful thinking and false hope.

Tension continued in Berlin. The Moscow radio kept drumming hate

Soldiers Take Over In Dayton, O. Strike

Guardsmen With Tanks Deployed At Plant

BY DWIGHT PITKIN

Dayton, O., Aug. 3 (P)—The National Guard broke the strike shacks on the Univis Lens company plant today and the strike's leader was ordered jailed for 10 days for contempt of court.

Approximately 350 non-strikers, protected by troops, tanks and guns, marched back into the factory where pickets fought with them and police last week.

When the Guardsmen and a court order restricted the CIO United Electrical Workers to six pickets at the plant entrance, strike leader Lou Kaplan of New York was called to task before common pleas Judge Paul T. Klapp.

Kaplan, International field agent for the UE, was sentenced to 10 days in jail before he kept the judge waiting an hour and a half. He and four other strikers, originally cited for contempt because they disobeyed a court order to remain away from the factory area, also were fined $100 each.

Three hundred gathered at one time this morning, but troopers with a Sherman tank and machinegun carriers drove them out of the neighborhood.

VICTORY FOR U. S. A. Olympic Stadium, Wembley, England, Aug. 3 (P)—Mel Patton of Southern California won the 200 meter dash in the Olympic games today to give the United States its seventh track and field triumph after American athletes swept the top three places in the shot put.

New York, Aug. 3 (P)—The Communists banned news photographs last night of the crowd attending their National convention at Madison Square Garden.

The reason, Communist sources said, was that persons pictured at the meeting might face loss of their jobs.

Photographers were given ample opportunity to take pictures of the Communist leadership.

Ferguson Complains Of Cabinet Handicap On Spy Ring Inquiry

Washington, Aug. 3 (P)—Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) today accused the administration of putting a "handicap" on congressional investigation of an alleged wartime Communist spy ring within the government.

When a Senate investigations committee resumed hearings on the case, Ferguson told the members he has been unable to get a "yes" or "no" answer to the committee's request that the commerce department turn over the employment records of William W. Remington.

Remington is an official in the office of international trade. He was named by Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley, confessed Communist spy ring courier, as one of the government workers she said turned secret data over to her during the war.

The committee's request for Remington's employment record was sent to the White House because President Truman has forbidden government agencies to give out any information on "loyalty" checks on government workers.

"The record is clear that the committee has tried to get the employment records of Mr. Remington," Ferguson said.

"It looked last Friday as if the secretary of commerce would be able to turn them over to us. He has been called this morning and he is unable to give an answer as to whether he can or cannot turn them over to us."

"We will proceed under this handicap," Ferguson emphasized that the committee was not asking for "what they call loyalty checks" on Remington, but for the names of people who approved his employment and transfers.

Remington was waiting to testify when Ferguson discussed the failure to get this data.

Arcic Ice Blocks Navy's Food Convoy

Flotilla Stalled On Way To Northern Alaska

Point Barrow, Alaska, Aug. 3 (P)—An eight-ship navy food convoy's race to bring a year's supplies to the top of the North American continent was blocked today, at least temporarily, by the Arctic ice pack.

The navy's oil exploration bases and native villages on the upper rim of Alaska are dependent on the 42,000 tons of cargo carried by the ships.

The narrow Arctic sea channel was sealed by north winds yesterday less than two weeks after the latest breakup since 1933. The ice stalled the flotilla at Point Lay, a day's voyage to the south-west.

The eight ships, including five 14,000-ton attack transports, are manned by 2,500 Navy men. They carry lumber, fuel, vehicles and other equipment vital to continuation of the Navy's hunt for oil at the "top of the world."

The coast guard cutter Northwind, sent here in advance of the convoy, raced for open water Sunday as the shifting winds drove the ice toward shore.

Bonine-Tripp Labor Law Ruled Illegal

Detroit, Aug. 3 (P)—Michigan's controversial labor law, the Bonine-Tripp Act, today was ruled unconstitutional by Circuit Judge Theodore J. Richter.

The case was brought to court last May by the CIO-United Auto Workers, who sought to test the law's validity.

The issue involved whether the union's 75,000 Chrysler employees had violated state law by going on strike without taking a state strike vote.

Such a vote is called for by the Bonine-Tripp Act.

Suspended Atomic Scientists Cleared In Loyalty Checkup

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Aug. 3 (P)—Two atomic scientists who were suspended last May during a loyalty check have been cleared, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

The two scientists were never identified by the commission and the charges against them were not publicized. Pending the outcome of the check on their loyalty, the pair were denied access to restricted atomic information.

The Oak Ridge Association of Engineers and Scientists at the time protested the action taken against the pair with the assertion that its members had been "seriously demoralized" and that the accused were not given an opportunity to confront their accusers.

DRAFT BOARD IN JAIL

Ionica, Mich., Aug. 3 (P)—The new Ionica County Draft Board went to jail Monday night. Unable to find other quarters for their first formal session, board members had to assemble in the prisoners' visiting room of the county jail.

Hunt For Reds Takes Heat Off Idle Congress

BY JACK BELL

Washington, Aug. 3 (P)—The widely publicized hunt for Communists in government jobs was credited by some Republicans today with taking the political heat off the do-little Congress session.

GOP leaders aren't talking about it publicly. But some said privately they couldn't have picked a better time for senate and house committees to turn up with testimony tabbing Democratic office holders as the source of secret wartime information that went to Moscow.

It is their view that even if the charges aren't proved, the thousands of written and spoken words have helped take the public's mind—at least for a while—off President Truman's demand for action to cut living costs.

Democratic leaders said this might be partly true. But they insisted the cost of living is going to be one of the major issues in the campaign.

West Coast Has No Stray Soviet Mines

Shipping Menace Stories Denied By Coast Guard

Seattle, Aug. 3 (P)—United States Navy and Coast Guard headquarters today discounted a story that stray Russian mines are endangering West Coast shipping.

The 13th Naval district said that numerous reports of Russian mines in Pacific northwest waters have been received during the past year, but all proved false.

The 13th Coast Guard district also confirmed that no Russian mines have been sighted off the Washington and Oregon coast.

Both branches of the service said that each of the 60 mines donated on northwest beaches since last February has been Japanese. Prevailing tides have prevented any mines from drifting ashore in the past 30 days and none are expected until conditions change in October. The few located at sea since July 1 have been Japanese-type.

In Vancouver, the story was challenged by Rear Adm. E. Rolio Mainguy, Pacific coast flag officer for the Royal Canadian Navy. He said all mines destroyed by the R. C. N. were Japanese.

Wife Found Killed On Illinois Farm; No Murder Charge

Oregon, Ill., Aug. 3 (P)—The death of a 36-year-old farm wife, formerly thought to have been murder, has been held to be suicide.

Willard Burrigh, chief deputy sheriff of Cole county, reported last night that Mrs. Alvina Aschenbrenner, had committed suicide. Her body was found Sunday with a bullet hole between the eyes.

Her husband, Lester, and their two children, Donald, 18, and Jean, 16, all took lie detector tests yesterday. The sheriff said the tests confirmed their account that Mrs. Aschenbrenner disappeared from home last Thursday, and that they did not know the circumstances of her death.

A .22 caliber target pistol was found near her body. A suicide note was in one of her pockets. However, police at first believed the position of the body, and Mrs. Aschenbrenner's right-handedness precluded suicide.

Journalist-Poet Elected President Of Hungary Today

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 3 (P)—Arpad Szakasits, a former stone mason, journalist and poet, was elected president of Hungary today. The vote by parliament was unanimous.

He succeeds Zoltan Tildy, who resigned last Friday, a few hours after his son-in-law, Dr. Victor Csorok, was arrested and charged with espionage and treason.

When Imre Nagy, speaker of Hungary's parliament, announced that Szakasits was the only candidate for the presidency, members of the Democratic peoples party and of the Christian Womens camp—both opposition groups—walked out. They returned to their seats after the speaker declared Szakasits elected.

Szakasits, who was nominated by the unified (Communist-ruled) labor party, formerly was deputy premier, under Premier Lajos Dinnyes.

Ford Car Prices Sliced In Canada

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 3 (P)—Retail price reductions ranging from $177 on the Ford Deluxe business coupe to $363 on the Monarch sport sedan were announced by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, following the Federal government's downward revision of the excise tax on passenger cars.

Horace H. Greenfield, director of sales and advertising, said the reductions are effective with billings to dealers on and after Aug. 2.

dent Truman's demand for action to cut living costs.

Democratic leaders said this might be partly true. But they insisted the cost of living is going to be one of the major issues in the campaign.

Ammunition For Dewey They are confident that Mr. Truman isn't going to let the people forget about it. If the special session ends with little done to curb inflation he probably will blast the Republicans again.

Nevertheless the congressional inquiries have furnished Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York with some new talking points for the clean-house-in-Washington demand he may emphasize when his campaign gets under way actively in September.

Dewey has had a lot to say in the past about Communists in government. Now he has a chance to name some names, if he chooses to accept the testimony given before the committees.

On the other hand, Democrats don't think the charges now being aired will affect Mr. Truman's political standing.

They point out that the president moved months ago to bring about a loyalty check of employees. They note that most of the information supposed to have gone to the Soviet agent involved activities before Mr. Truman went to the White House.

Although there is some doubt they will come up with any broad scale cost-of-living legislation, the Republicans think they have now

Greek Army Shuffle May Speed Up War

Command Shaken Up To Crush Guerrillas

By L. S. CHAKALES

Athens, Aug. 3 (P)—Premier Themistokles Sophoulis has announced a reshuffle in the Greek army high command to "accelerate the tempo" of the war effort. The shake-up followed American suggestions for speeding up the fight against Communist-led insurgents.

The Greek premier said Lt. Gen. Panos Kalogeropoulos, commander of the second corps, has been given a month's leave. He added that the Greek deputy chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Stylianos Kiriakakis, is proceeding to the northern front to take full command of the Grammos mountains offensive.

The Grammos operation originally was slated to end within two weeks. It now has stretched into six weeks. It was intended as a final drive to smash Markos Vafiades' Communist rebellion.

The Americans were reported also to have asked for a shake-up in the air ministry, informants said. There also were reports that Maj. Gen. Laos, commander of the fifteenth division, would be relieved of his post.

Washington, Aug. 3 (P)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee today approved legislation to lend the United Nations $65,000,000 for construction of permanent headquarters in New York City. The legislation, already passed by the Senate, may be called up in the House for action tomorrow.

King Cole Acquires Los Angeles House, Runs Into Protests

Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (AP)—Nat (King) Cole, popular Negro musician, today stood by his decision to purchase a $65,000 home in an exclusive Los Angeles residential district.

Despite a dissonant chorus from his future neighbors—he hasn't moved in yet—the singer and pianist said:

"I've always been a good citizen. I wish I could meet all my new neighbors and explain this situation to them."

Cole—recording and night club favorite who popularized the hit song "Nature Boy"—bought the ivy-covered, English style residence in the fashionable Hancock Park district. He explained to newsmen that he could afford it, adding:

"This is not an act of defiance. My bride and I like this house x x x and we would like to make it our home."

Cole's wife is the former Marie Ellington, onetime singer with Duke Ellington's band, although no relation to Duke. Their recent wedding was perhaps the most lavish ever held in New York's Harlem.

SCHOOL CAUCUS PICKS NOMINEES

Five Board Members On Ballot For Aug. 12

In well-attended school caucuses held last night in Bay de Noc, Ensign and Masonville townships the voters nominated five candidates for members of a school board to direct the affairs of a consolidated district comprising the three townships.

The nominees whose names will go on the ballot at the Aug. 12 election are as follows: Sheldon Cobb of Bay de Noc township; Richard Johnston and Andy Sundberg of Ensign township; and Leslie Caswell and Mrs. Marie Callahan of Masonville township.

In addition to the above slate of candidates picked at the school caucuses, space will be allowed on the ballots for write-ins at the Aug. 12 election.

Also nominated in caucus last night were Mrs. Murray Cole of Masonville township and Semer Thorsen of Bay de Noc township as candidate-at-large. A third candidate-at-large was Andy Sundberg of Ensign, and in a drawing conducted by school board presidents of the "old" school districts, Sundberg's name was drawn as candidate-at-large for the consolidated district. The drawing was at the Alton hall after the caucus.

The Aug. 12 election will be held in the township hall at Rapid River and the polls will be open from 11 a. m. to 7 p. m. After the election the new school board will meet to organize and elect a president, secretary and treasurer.

In the caucuses held in the three townships last night, 95 votes were cast in Masonville township, 55 in Ensign and 30 in Bay de Noc.

WELLS BRIDGE DANGER CITED

Passenger, School Bus
Rerouting Advised

The Delta Transit company and the Wells township school board will be advised that their buses should be rerouted so they will not have to cross the "old" bridge on a county road at Wells, the Delta county road commission decided last night.

They will be advised that the strength of the bridge cannot be determined.

William Karas, road superintendent-engineer, told the commission that evidence gathered in the last several years shows the bridge is slowly "leaning" downstream.

The bridge is a concrete, steel and wood structure. Karas said the bridge is so constructed that it is impossible to determine the load it will safely carry. It has been posted as safe for loads up to 5,000 pounds on any axle.

Other business before the commission last night included:

Approval of a trunkline maintenance contract with the state highway department for the fiscal year starting July 1 and totaling $99,936.

Adoption of a resolution expressing to Jule Van Damme of St. Nicholas the appreciation of the commission for Van Damme's gift of a gravel pit to the county.

Advised Arthur Pouliot and his son, Marvin, of Terrace Gardens, that the county cannot assist in placing gravel on their driveway road, located on private property.

Agreed to aid in stabilizing three-tenths of a mile of road in the U. P. State fair grounds, as requested by Harry Brackett, member of the U. P. State Fair board of managers.

Delta Near Self-Support Among Michigan Counties

Among 49 counties in Michigan, Delta county last year most nearly approached self-support and paid out in state taxes almost as much as its local units received from Lansing in state aid, according to figures compiled by Henry Steffens, director of Michigan Survey.

Thirty-four of Michigan's 83 counties were entirely self-supporting, while 49 (including Delta) received net benefits from state sources.

In this group Delta county most nearly approached self-support with $25.40 local levy for each net state dollar received, Steffens reported. The statewide average was $2.02 in local levies for each net state dollar.

Although Delta county was not one of the self-supporting counties in the state, it came close. The report shows the county produced $1,486,974 in estimated gross state revenue and received $1,510,110 from the state.

Delta county, therefore, was classified as non-self-supporting because it received $23,136 more from state revenues than the revenues it produced for the state.

The survey indicates that Delta county is making a determined effort to become self-supporting, since the county raised $25.40 in local taxes for each $1 received in net state aid. The higher the dollar total, the less local units within the county depend upon help from outside their boundaries.

The number of self-supporting counties in Michigan is growing despite the increasing amounts of state sales tax being returned to local school districts, cities and townships, the survey shows. This additional return means a larger amount the local units would have to raise to become self-supporting, and six more counties became self-supporting since last year, including Chippewa county in the Upper Peninsula.

Chippewa and Marquette are the only two self-supporting counties in the Upper Peninsula, with 22 others in Lower Michigan. Gogebic county, self-supporting in 1945, slipped from that list last year, along with Eaton county downstate.

'Pat' Soukop, Former 'Blue Baby', Is Happy

Munising — Pat, (short for Patricia) Soukop is 19 years old today. Until five weeks ago she had never led a normal life—she never had been able to walk more than a short distance without panting for breath. The least amount of physical exertion would cause her to faint — anywhere, anytime.

You see, Pat was born a "blue baby." A quirk of nature had prevented one of her heart vessels from returning enough oxygen to her body. The medical profession calls it pulmonary stenosis.

The tell-tale symptoms were all there. Blue fingernails, clubbed finger tips, purple lips quite swollen, a bluish cast to her complexion, and a squatting, huddled crouch resulted from her slightest exertion.

Goes To Heart Specialists

Pat's parents, Justice of the Peace Andrew J. Soukop and his wife, Munising, had been determined to do something for Pat ever since she was a baby—they had watched the newspapers, had listened to their radio, had talked to doctors and others, hoping they might find some clue to a cure for Pat's invalidism.

About two months ago the Soukops were told by their physician they might take Pat to Ford hospital in Detroit. There a new team of heart specialists, Drs. Robert F. Ziegler and Conrad Lam, would examine Pat and decide if an operation could be performed.

The Soukop family drove to Detroit and entered Pat in the hospital. Wednesday afternoon after an extensive examination and diagnosis, Dr. Ziegler informed Mrs. Soukop he would like to perform the operation on Friday, June 4. It was unbelievable, Mrs. Soukop thought, but she gave her consent.

Six-Hour Operation

Drs. Ziegler and Lam began the delicate operation at 7:30 a. m. Friday. It lasted six hours! The operation consists of measuring the blood flow from the lungs to the heart, the blood pressure, and the amount of oxygen supplied from within the heart by inserting a catheter into a vein in the left arm, then extending the catheter through this vein, to the heart.

The vessel leading to the arm is cut and sewed into a pulmonary artery. Thus, the obstruction which is preventing the normal flow of blood from the lungs is by-passed.

Needless to say, the operation was successful. Pat was sitting up in her hospital bed 36 hours after the operation. On the fifth day, she was allowed to walk about her room. In 11 days Pat and her mother returned to their home in Munising.

Dr. Ziegler has been a Ford hospital specialist since 1941. In 1946 he was given a one-year leave of absence from the hospital to study at Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, Md. There he met patients and surgeons from all over the world—all eager to learn about the revolutionary diagnosis-surgery developed by Drs. Alfred Blalock, chief surgeon, and Helen D. Taussig, chief of the children's clinic.

Most Cases Successful

In one year of practice with the new operation Drs. Ziegler and Lam have achieved 80 per cent success. More than 200 patients have been diagnosed and studied. Persons as old as 45 years of age have benefited from the Blalock-Taussig operation.

Today the operation has been brought within the financial reach of all parents with blue babies. Responsible for this arrangement are the Michigan Crippled Children's Commission and the Ford Foundation.

As for Pat — she now walks downtown from her home, several blocks—her complexion is a rosy pink, her fingernails have natural color, her fingers are growing out of their clubbed shape, and she walks erectly for the first time in her life.

Since she has had but two years of regular schooling, Pat is to be given special tutoring at home until she reaches the eighth-grade level. Then, according to her mother, Pat will be allowed to choose her own field of endeavor.

She had "a great big wiener roast" on her birthday.

Judson Rosebush Of Appleton Dies

Chicago (AP)—Judson Rosebush, 69, of Appleton, Wis., died of a heart ailment Saturday night while eating in a cafeteria in the Chicago North Western Railroad Station. The body was sent to Appleton.

Rosebush was general manager of the Northern Paper Mills of Green Bay from 1921 to 1935, and during the time had charge of extensive power developments along the Menominee river. Rosebush Lake near the Chalk Hills hydro plant was named by him. He left the faculty of Lawrence College to join Northern Mills which after his administration divested itself of its Menominee river hydro-electric plants, now owned by W. M. Power Co.

He was born in Alfred, N. Y., and held degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, Cornell, and Berlin. He was director of the Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co., of Port Edward, Wis., and was one of the founders of the Inland Empire Paper Co. in Washington. In 1910 he was also chairman of the board of directors of the Craig Mountain Lumber Co., of Winchester, Idaho.

STRAITS QUEEN TO VISIT CITY

Alice Beatrice West To Come Here Saturday

Miss Straits of Mackinac, diminutive daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Luther S. West of Northern State Teachers college, Marquette, queen of that city's centennial celebration in 1949, will extend her greeting to the citizens of Escanaba at 11 a. m. Saturday, Aug. 7, when she arrives with her alternate, "Miss St. Ignace," and chaplains.

The tiny redheaded Alice Beatrice West, five feet, three inches tall and carrying 103 pounds, chosen queen to reign Aug. 13-15 at the silver jubilee of the Michigan State Fair and homecoming in St. Ignace, was titled from among a group of nearly 20 northern Michigan beauties as the result of a contest last Saturday night. Judges naming Miss West as Queen of the Straits country included such distinguished radio and newspaper men as Kendrick Kimball of The Detroit News and "Bud" Guest, WJR, Detroit.

Miss West will extend her cordial invitation to residents of Escanaba to enjoy a weekend at St. Ignace and participate in the festivities, which will include the first official swimming of the Straits of Mackinac between Mackinac Island and St. Ignace and dedication of Michigan's highest highway bridge at Cut River with Gov. Kim Sigler, Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler, national and other state officials present.

The celebration opens on Friday, Aug. 13, and continues through Sunday, featuring name bands, national figures and Michigan's most beautiful girls from Brevort, Cheboygan, Charlevoix, Sault Ste. Marie, Marquette, St. Ignace and Munising.

Miss West and party will spend Saturday night at the House of Ludington, Escanaba.

He was stationed at Hawaii, New Guinea and the Netherlands East Indies campaigns before the Luzon invasion.

Schramm was born in Rapid River June 23, 1918 and attended public schools there. He graduated from Rapid River high school in 1937 and was employed on his father's farm when he entered service, Sept. 8, 1942.

He is survived by his parents and a brother Randolph of Detroit. The body will be removed to the family home in Rapid River Friday. Funeral services will be conducted Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from the family home and at 2:30 from St. Martin Lutheran church in Rapid River with Rev. Theophil Hoffmann, pastor, officiating.

Delta Road Fund Deficit Grows; May Hit $73,000

The Delta county road commission in special meeting last night was informed by William Karas, its superintendent-engineer, that by Dec. 31, 1948, it will have an estimated deficit of $73,643.29.

Rising costs without any major increase in the amount of receipts was described as responsible for the road commission's financial difficulties.

Last year the road commission ended the year with a $30,000 deficit that had to be made up from 1948 receipts. With the sanction of the county board of supervisors the road commission borrowed from the county, returning the loan when highway funds were received.

Karas reported to the commission that receipts for the period from July 1 to Dec. 31, this year, will total an estimated $194,178.27. Disbursements for the same period, which includes a balance necessary to carry on the county road program for the first three months of 1949, will total $267,821.56, leaving a deficit of $73,643.29.

Costs Going Up

It was pointed out that the county road commission receives the first payment of weight and gas tax revenue from the state in April of each year. This means that no funds are available to carry on the county road program in January, February and March unless it is budgeted the year before. Karas estimated the cost of three months operation at $50,000 but said it might run as high as $70,000.

The cost of maintaining a minimum county road program is increasing, Karas reported. The cost for the first seven months of 1948 was a total of $226,114.26, compared with $173,117.82 for the same period last year. Payrolls alone for the seven-month period were $17,767 above last year; bills paid were $27,818 above last year in the same period and other costs had gone up.

State Senator Joe Cloon of Wakefield conferred with the commission last night and said that he was hopeful of some relief for county road finances in Michigan next year. Proposals for increased weight and gas tax to provide additional road funds for counties, the state highway department and city streets have been urged by a Michigan highway study committee.

No Shut-down Here

Most of the Michigan county road departments are in financial straits, Cloon said. Iron county road commission has a $50,000 deficit and is "closed down" its road program, he reported.

Delta Road Commissioners Harry Greene, chairman, Hilding Norstrom and Henry Wylie indicated they did not expect to "close up shop" because of the mounting deficit. Essential highway services will be maintained. In view of the financial report, the commission put off purchasing a new 25-ton trailer on which bids had been received.

The commission also instructed Karas to report at the next meeting on old county road equipment that might be sold.

It approved the purchase of four snow plows to attach to

Economic Blackmail

THE SOVIET BLOCKADE of Berlin has taken a new twist as the Reds move to exploit the condition of economic stagnation that they have achieved in the German capital. The Russians have offered raw materials and electrical power to industries in the western sectors that have been forced to curtail their operations or shut down entirely because of the blockade. In exchange for this "concession," however, the Russians are demanding that products manufactured in such plants be delivered to the Russian-controlled economic commission for sale in the Russian zone or in the Soviet-dominated eastern European countries.

The effect of this blackmailing policy would be to give Russia a complete economic stranglehold over all of Berlin. If the German industrialists accepted this bait, it would mean certain and complete communication of their property in the long run. Further it would inevitably result in the incorporation of all of Berlin into the Soviet zone eventually, regardless of what efforts the western powers may make short of war itself to prevent it.

The explosive character of the Berlin situation is evidenced by reports that while the United States makes plans to step up its Berlin air lift as a means of transporting more supplies to the German capital, the Russians are seeking to close one or more of the three lanes used to fly supplies to the blockaded cities. Developments of this conflict could readily lead to air battles over Berlin and even to war.

In the meantime the Russians are giving the western powers a run-around in their attempts to settle the Berlin crisis by negotiation. Mr. Molotov, it seems, is very conveniently "on vacation" while the United States and Britain seek to contact him to discuss ways and means of settling the controversy.

Nightmare!

THE PEOPLE of the United States have had an exceptional health record, and compulsory sickness insurance would prove a "nightmare of social confusion, incompetence, and extravagant cost."

That opinion has been offered by Dr. Haven Emerson, who served for many years as Professor of Public Health Administration at Columbia University, and is a former Health Commissioner of the City of New York.

Dr. Emerson said further, "We of the United States may say with entire truth and honesty that no population mass of such dimensions as ours living under a single form of government and including races so numerous and diverse, and climates and occupations of such variety, has in the recorded history of man enjoyed such average length of life and been spared the sufferings and infirmities of so many of the diseases known to be preventable."

Advocates of compulsory sickness insurance, for the most part, consist of politicians and lay groups with a record of supporting any and all proposals which are labeled "social progress," regardless of their merits. On the other hand, the vast majority of medical men who have testified on it have voiced strong opposition. In other words, the real experts are near-unanimous in believing, as does Dr. Emerson, that it would lead to a decline in medical standards, and approach the economic stratosphere in cost. Voluntary prepaid medical and hospital plans which are open to all are rapidly eliminating any arguments advanced for compulsory government medicine supported by payroll assessments. The people should remember that when the subject comes up for discussion again.

Marvin L. Coon

THE SUDDEN DEATH of Marvin L. Coon is a distinct loss to Escanaba, which Mr. Coon served faithfully and conscientiously as a city councilman and former mayor. He was one of those rare individuals both willing and capable of serving his community in a variety of civic affairs.

Few councilmen in the history of Escanaba's city manager government devoted more time to the thankless but extremely important job of service on the city council as did Mr. Coon. Although he was serving his first term on the council, Mr. Coon spent many hours studying the problems of city government and was thoroughly familiar with the requirements of the community.

Mr. Coon's contribution to the civic development of Escanaba was not confined by any means to his conscientious and unpaid service on the city council. He devoted considerable time to other phases of civic affairs, including the welfare of local schools and Delta county government, as well as veterans' affairs.

Since his return to Escanaba from service as a commander in the U. S. Navy following World War II, Mr. Coon was one of the community's foremost leaders in virtually all programs designed to make Escanaba a better city for its people. He accepted these responsibilities cheerfully and willingly, which is something of a rarity in these days when so many people shirk their obligations as citizens.

Escanaba will surely miss Marvin L. Coon.

Only "Plain Killers"

THE PRESIDENT and Congress agree that there is inflation, and that something ought to be done about it. Political commentators say Mr. Truman has put the GOP majority on the spot by demanding that Congress adopt his anti-inflation program.

The eight-point program offered to the special session is, as the President said, a slightly revamped rehash of the proposals he made to the regular session last year.

President Truman has seized a preferred position by offering a positive program which Congress will not adopt and for which it has, as yet, offered no alternative. But to consumers, who are more interested in the high cost of living than in political jockeying, this is not enough.

The fundamental reason we have inflation is because the American people have more "money" than there are goods to spend it for. "Money" means not only cash, but bank accounts, bonds, credit—anything that can be used to buy something.

There are two ways to control inflation. One is by making enough goods to balance the supply of money. The other is by reducing the supply of money to a level with that of goods.

President Truman, many labor unions and some others propose a third way. It is included in four of the President's eight points. It is to restore government controls over prices, rents, rationing, and allocation and inventory control of key materials.

It may be that such controls will prove desirable as stop-gap measures. Many who oppose the mon principle are weakening. But it is important to recognize those controls as mere sedatives, not cures. To the extent that they work they relieve the pain, but they do nothing about what is causing the pain, and the minute you stop taking them you suffer worse than ever.

In extreme cases physicians give opiates to ease pain while the patient is dying. But this country and its economy are not dying. We may need an opiate, but if so we need it only to keep us quiet while the doctor is curing the maladjustments that are responsible for our troubles.

So there are many who feel that we must not adopt the opiates of government controls unless, at the same time, we do something about the unbalance of "money" and goods that is causing inflation.

We should not yet have forgotten the various types of black markets that made price and rationing controls of doubtful value before they were dropped after the war.

Neither should we yet have forgotten the enormous pressure of high costs and eager desires, built up under the thin crust of wartime controls, that blew up and dynamited prices to the skies the moment controls were taken off.

The non-partisan, non-political criticism of President Truman's anti-inflation program is not that it goes too far, but rather that half of it isn't even aimed at the roots of the poisonous plant, and the rest of it only strikes at a few of the smaller branches.

As usual, some hunting accidents happened because both the gun and the hunter were loaded.

The best reason for finding the key to success is that it will open a nice bank account.

SECRETARY'S HANDBOOK

Q. We are a group of business women. We are forming a club. Should we call it "Woman's Club" or "Women's Club."

—Mrs. F. P. S.

A. This question comes up regularly in my mail; and it is a question that can be answered by flipping a coin. It's simply a matter of choice.

Merriam Webster's states: "Woman's—Women's are often used without real distinction. Strictly, Woman's refers to women collectively or in the abstract; Women's regards them as individuals; as, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, the Young Women's Christian Association."

At first glance, that definition has a fine and scholarly ring. Analyze it, though, and you'll find that it is dictionary doubletalk. What is there about "Woman's . . . Union" that refers to women collectively if "Women's . . . Association" regards them as individuals? A union and an association are one and the same; at least so says Merriam Webster's (see association, page 167).

I have before me a roster of the Washington State Federation of Women's Clubs. Hundreds of such forms as these are listed: Woman's Club; Women's Club; Woman's Community Club; Women's Progressive Club; Junior Women's Club; Senior Women's Club, etc.

By checking other rosters, telephone books, city directories, etc., I find that "Women's" widely prevails throughout the country. And it is the more logical, for any organization is made up of men (plural) or women (plural), or both. An organization of women, then, is surely a women's organization. "Women's" is my recommendation.

Q. Are the words north, east, south, west always capitalized? My boss says yes.—C. F. F.

A. Points of the compass are not capitalized. Correct; Cincinnati is south of Dayton. We are going west for our vacation.

When the words designate a section of the country, they should be capitalized. Correct. Why?—G. S. G.

World Events Analyzed

Washington. — The temper of the congressmen in special session is described as "angry," "sullen," "surly." There are unquestionably members of the 80th Congress who have come back here in a pretty bitter frame of mind.

If you were Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and you had to give up the peace and coolness of Murray Bay in Canada for the tussle of a session in Washington's summer heat, you wouldn't feel too happy about it. Or if you were Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr., and you had to leave the pleasures of Cape Cod for a political hot spot, you would certainly not do any cheering.

For most members, however, and particularly those in the House, the recall comes as something of a relief. Back in the home district there is little peace for the average congressman. He is at the mercy of the people about whom he talks so long and eloquently in the halls of Congress.

FIND REFUGE IN CAPITAL

They want to tell him, for a change, what they think. Or they have a favor to ask. On top of this come endless requests to speak at this picnic and that rally; invitations which the candidate cannot refuse. He is also the prey of a legion of solicitors for worthy causes who expect him to contribute generously out of a salary that is regarded back home as inexhaustible.

So in the present interlude, before the election begins, a great many members are pleased at finding a refuge in the capital. The sound effects of anger and denunciation are largely for political purposes.

For some members, however, the special session imposes a serious penalty. It gives an opponent a perfect opportunity to make hay back home while the incumbent is sweating it out in Washington.

Rep. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee is an example of one on whom the session imposes a severe handicap. In fact, he may be the outstanding example, for he is engaged in a tough fight to win the seat in the Senate now held by Senator Tom Stewart at the primary to be held in Tennessee next Thursday.

Kefauver is a liberal. He has consistently fought for the New Deal measures that have made such changes in his region. In many ways he typifies the changing south.

OPPOSED BY BOSS CRUMP

That is one reason why the bitter enemies of change are trying so hard to defeat him. Their big boss drum is boss Ed Crump of Memphis. Crump has spent thousands of dollars in a series of full-page newspaper advertisements throughout the state to smear Kefauver as a "Red."

Crump is a resourceful and cunning politician who has long ruled Memphis as his own private principality. He is said to write the newspaper advertisements himself, subtly appealing to various kinds of prejudice. One instance of his smear technique is to show that on some measures Kefauver voted like Rep. Vito Marcantonio and, therefore, Crump links Kefauver to Communism and Wallace.

Unfortunately for boss Crump, the candidate of his choice, Judge John A. Mitchell of Cookeville, is not doing too well in a three-cornered race. Consequently, the boss may have to switch his support to Senator Stewart, the third contestant. Stewart has had a colorless career, for the most part following the lead of Tennessee's feuding patronage hunter, Senator Kenneth McKellar.

Until the session called him back, Kefauver was waging a marathon campaign that had brought him substantial gains, according to reports from the state. He has spoken in virtually all of Tennessee's 95 counties, often getting so far back into the hills that his office here could not reach him on the telephone.

His campaign is in the rugged frontier tradition. At every crossroads he strides up and down the street, shaking hands with young and old and asking them to vote for him on his record. It calls not merely for strong nerves but for lusty lungs and stout underpinnings. Here is no air-conditioned campaign train with the appearances of the candidates carefully stage-managed.

The Democratic victor in the primary is certain to face a tough fight in the fall, whether it is Kefauver or one of the Crump pets. The surge of Republican confidence has raised high hopes that the border states and even the solid south can be cracked.

Evidence of that confidence is the candidacy of Carroll Reece who resigned as Republican national chairman when Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was nominated. Reece, who represented the first district of Tennessee in Congress for 26 years, recently announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the Senate.

If Kefauver should oppose Reece in November, the chances are that boss Crump would support the Republican candidate. That is an indication of the way in which the cards are stacked against liberalism this year.

Correct: He lives in the North. She was born in the West. It is cooler in the East and warmer in the South.

Q. A textbook states that "and etc" is incorrect, meaning "and other things." Therefore "and etc" is equivalent to "and and other things." In writing etc., omit the "and."

An understanding of the personal pronouns is essential to good English. Mr. Colby's pamphlet, C-22, is used in hundreds of classrooms because of its simplicity and common sense. For a copy send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and five cents in coin, to Frank Colby, in care of Escanaba Daily Press, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Q. The answer that prices are based on the old "law" of supply and demand is too simple to apply in this complex economic period.

MANY FACTORS—The supply of certain foodstuffs, for example, has been above the nation's ability to consume in recent years. Millions of bushels of potatoes were "dumped," a better word than destroyed. Yet the producers of these unwanted potatoes received a high price from the government for them, and the potatoes left to be consumed were sold at a still higher margin of profit.

In contrast, the number of new automobiles being produced was insufficient to meet the demand. The government established no price guarantee to the producer, and certainly none was necessary. Yet the eager consumer in too many instances turned to the auto racketeer dealer to pay far above

A Thing of Beauty Is a Joy Forever

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

THE MEETING —Never having claimed or been given credit for having too much "money sense," we are probably among the last in America who should comment on today's inflationary prices.

If what we are experiencing today, however, is the result of deep thought on the part of economists, we guess we can speak up. Planned or unplanned, today's inflationary prices indicate that a lot of poor materials are going into our economic structure. Anything poorly built is weak. Weakness means that when the crash comes the whole structure will collapse to its foundation.

Most of the faulty work of the post-war years is the result of efforts to make both ends meet. Higher wages, higher costs, higher prices. Or higher prices followed by demands for higher wages, bringing higher costs—put the sequence any way you wish. It all adds up to inflation.

LOWER LEVELS—The viewpoint from which we write is not that of the union leader intent on getting as much as he can in wages for his men. Nor is it the viewpoint of the producer whose aim is to sell as high as possible with a guarantee of parity prices; or the manufacturer or processor who is intent on bigger profits to the benefit of his business and its owners; or the retailer whose chief difficulty in recent years has been in obtaining goods to sell at reasonable prices to meet competition.

Our viewpoint is that of the two-bit consumer in the so-called white-collar classification.

AND THE HIGHER —From the consumer's viewpoint, the cost of an article is based upon what it can be sold for. At least that has been his observation.

Here is an example: A certain washing machine was selling six months ago for approximately $250. Three months ago the price of that same machine was cut to $200. At the time the price cut was put into effect the manufacturer announced a new line of higher priced machines not materially different than the old ones.

The natural question the consumer asks is this: If a machine that sold for $250 can be reduced in price to $200, on what basis are costs and prices established?

The answer that prices are based on the old "law" of supply and demand is too simple to apply in this complex economic period.

COOPERATION —Because of this inherent faith in the American principles of free enterprise and freedom of opportunity, the American consumer is at the mercy of industry and labor. Unless they cooperate in holding down prices, they as well as the consumer will be greatly harmed in the resulting runaway inflation.

The application of government price controls, even as a last resort, might do more harm than good. Centralization of power in the control of a basic factor of our economy could lead to extension of authority, or at least set a pattern that might be dangerous in the future.

The power to halt inflation should remain in the hands of those who are responsible for today's spiraling prices—the producers, the processors, and the dealers. To a lesser degree it is the responsibility of the consumer, who can through "buyers' strikes" help bring prices down.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago

Escanaba—Mrs. Rose Boyce and Mary Agnes Boyce have returned from Duluth, Minn., and Ironwood, where they visited for three weeks with Mrs. Boyce's daughter, Mrs. Victor Lemmer.

Escanaba—Tom Gabourie, formerly of the Standard Service station on 11th street, has opened a Cities Service station across the street from the telephone office on the corner of Tenth street and first avenue. He is associated with Milton Bloomquist.

Escanaba—Not a single forest fire was reported in Delta and Menominee counties during the month of July.

Twenty Years Ago

Escanaba—The Misses Margaret Veiland, Betty Leighton and Mary Jane Thatcher are spending the weekend at Lighthall's camp on Manistique lake.

Escanaba—Peter Asp and Victor Powers have returned from a two weeks' camping trip at Thunder Lake.

the price asked by the legitimate dealer. It was the only way he could get a car.

Through government "meddling," through a twisted application of "free enterprise," and because of other factors, today's prices spiral upward toward what now appears to be an inevitable and dangerous inflation.

CONTROLS—Always suspicious of regimentation and so-called socialistic economics, the American consumer would, in the majority, rather suffer through a boom and bust than submit to government regulation of our economy. Aside from periods of wartime emergency, of course.

COOPERATION —Because of this inherent faith in the American principles of free enterprise and freedom of opportunity, the American consumer is at the mercy of industry and labor. Unless they cooperate in holding down prices, they as well as the consumer will be greatly harmed in the resulting runaway inflation.

The application of government price controls, even as a last resort, might do more harm than good. Centralization of power in the control of a basic factor of our economy could lead to extension of authority, or at least set a pattern that might be dangerous in the future.

So They Say

You can't shoot and kill an idea with a gun. Military genius—no matter how excellent—is not the answer that we dare to rely upon for victory in this cold war that gnaws at the peace—Gov. Thomas F. Dewey of New York.

We are rapidly approaching a real crisis in our Federal expenditures. Financial instability in the U. S. would serve the enemies of democracy far more than any weapon that could be devised.—Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D) of Virginia.

Roving Reporter

By Hal Boyle

New York, (P)—The rhymster who wanted to live in a house by the side of the road can have it.

He said he just wanted to be a friend of man, but by now he probably would have turned his roadside abode into a filling station, a tourist inn or a vegetable stand.

I'll take my house by the side of a river, where the race of men go by in boats. Railroad cars float by, too.

My river is the East River, and the waters wash with a fine impartiality the sinful banks of Manhattan and the moral shores of fair Green point, the acme of Brooklyn.

Children Are Allowed

My house stands on the Manhattan side. It is a quaint new brick cottage fourteen stories high, lost in a cluster of buildings that look as much alike as a rack full of cue balls.

The development was built by a big insurance company to hold 40,000 people, and it is one of the largest real estate ventures since the hanging gardens of Babylon.

The insurance company is a popular landlord. It reverses the dictum of most New York landlords: "Dogs, yes—children, no." Here man's best friend has to be smuggled in, but the leases allow the tenants all the children the Lord will send.

Life in a huge housing development has its aspects of grandeur. The insurance company didn't just send a gardener around with a hoe to pretty up the place. It dispatched a crew of bulldozers to level the land. Then came landscapers in battalions. They threw grass and crab apple trees around like Johnny Appleseed himself.

Elevators Are Problems

Another problem is the elevators, which get stuck occasionally. This happened the other day to a workman and two lady tenants.

"We rang the alarm bell and just sat down on the floor and talked until somebody came over and bailed us out," the workman told my wife, Frances. Some tenants now think the management ought to put a deck of cards or a small library in each elevator.

A friend of mine, a stern individualist, resisted my arguments that he should try to move into the development. He said:

"I can't stand the thought of coming into my apartment at 6:06 each night, kissing my wife, and looking across to the next building and seeing guys on fourteen floors doing exactly the same thing."

Modern cave-dwelling isn't quite that bad. We can watch from our window the ever-changing life on the river. And what do we care of the people below us and above us look out and see the same ships come in, the same barges float past carrying railroad cars and freight cars to the terminals across the water? Nobody ought to want to own a wonderful live alone.

There was one little tug named "Tracy" that Frances and I came to love. It was the busiest little tug on the river. Morning, noon and evening it came totting by. We pointed the tug out to a visitor once, and this cynic laughed:

"Don't you know there is a Tracy tugboat company? It has a lot of tugs, and they all have 'Tracy' pointed on the funnels!"

Well, what if our "Tracy" does have a multiple personality? We still like to see her—or them—chug past. But it is a little like finding out suddenly there were ten Abraham Lincolns instead of one.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Washington.—Here are some predictions some people would like to forget—this time from barons of business who lobbied so hard in the summer of 1946 to kill OPA:

Wesley Hardenberg, president, The American Meat Institute:

"What is needed is for Congress to do away entirely with all OPA meat and livestock price regulations of every description so that consumers again may get the kind of meat they want, when they want it, at a fair competitive market."

John E. Jaeger, president, National Association of Retail Grocers told the American Wholesale Grocers Association:

"We (retail grocers) feel that the time has arrived when . . . actions must be taken . . . to prevent renewal of the price control act. Competition will benefit the consumer by making available ample food at reasonable prices."

Arthur Bruce, president, National Lumber Manufacturers Association:

"I am personally of the opinion that we would be better off if the Office of Price Administration were to die a natural death June 30th."

Robert R. Wason, president, National Association of Manufacturers:

"If OPA is finally dead, women . . . will now use the canned meats and other goods they have on their shelves to see them through any temporary period of price rises. If OPA is eliminated entirely, prices of automobiles may be expected to reach normal within six months, while rents might take at least a year."

Al Guckenberger, executive secretary, New York State Food Merchants Association:

"Prices . . . will level off shortly as they had begun to do last August before controls were reimposed."

Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president, National Association of Real Estate Boards:

"We've got a gang in power who thinks solely of the consumer, and usually in terms of 'protecting' him."

DEWEY WAS BLACKBALLED

Only a few people know it, but when Tom Dewey was a student at the University of Michigan he was blackballed for membership in the Chi Phi men's fraternity.

Martin Codel, publisher of Television Digest, and Ed Engel, radio expert for the Republican national committee, got a chuckle over the incident the other day, especially the excuse given by the man who vetoed Dewey.

Codel and Engel were members of the Michigan Glee club on which Dewey was the star soloist. Dewey was hard up and at first had to borrow Engel's dinner jacket. When his name came before Chi Phi, several of his friends did their best to get Dewey accepted, but one man held out. His reason was: "The guy is poor material. Won't develop."

Today, the man who so appraised Dewey is a peddler of Florida real estate, so unknown that his old college associates can't remember his name, and the man he blackballed may be the next president of the United States.

Note—Though Dewey started out to be a concert singer, he also decided to study law. The singing business, he decided, was too precarious.

HIS CABINET PAINS PRESIDENT

Visitors who called on President Truman at the White House after Congress opened, found the chief executive hopping mad at some of his top executives. He was particularly irate with Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall, Undersecretary of the Army William H. Draper and the Army's Chief of Staff Gen. Omar Bradley.

Truman said he was fed up with Royall and Draper for their sabotage of White House policies. Draper's policy of rebuilding Germany at the expense of her neighbors and Secretary Royall's inept handling of army racial discrimination had got under his skin.

The president was more hurt than angry at the way his fellow Missourian, General Bradley had reaffirmed segregation and the army caste system 24 hours after his commander-in-chief had issued an executive order curbing segregation. Truman remarked to close friends that he might have expected trouble from many others, but not from Bradley.

BRADLEY'S REAL STATEMENT

Later, however, the president learned the real facts about General Bradley's statement and he felt better. The chief of staff had left for Fort Knox, Ky., without seeing the afternoon papers in which Truman issued his segregation order. Next day Bradley got up at 6 a. m. and at 7:30 went into the conference at which he made his segregation remark—

TELEVISION SET STUMPS RUARK

Putting Parts Together Is Difficult Job

BY ROBERT C. RUARK
New York—I am sitting here, littered to the knees in diagrams, and I do not know a potentiometer from a capacitor, but home constructed television is here in the simplified form and if a child can do it, I can do it.

Lemme see. First you take a ground-lug from package 0-115 and mount it with a self-tapping screw from package 0-105 in the position shown on diagram A (next to package 0-306.) Then you take the chassis skirt and off-study the danderdasher with the lugwasher and what's more, the yellow wire goes on terminal strip L, and the last one in is a rotten egg. A coaxial cable is a ground-lug is a dish of spaghetti. It says right here in construction stage 4, No. 2 on socket x-9 with spaghetti. That's what it says.

How spaghetti got into this operation I don't know, but that's what the chart calls for. It is a chart that is furnished with every one of the 30,000 unassembled television sets that have been sold by Transvision, Inc., of New Rochelle, N. Y., a firm which claims to have produced one tenth of all the video contraptions that've been bought since the war.

Crystal Set Recalled
Mr. H. D. Suesholtz, the Gen. Mgr., tells me that these sets have been assembled by children, aged 12, business executives, and housewives. I retract my earlier statement. I cannot do anything a child can do. At least I cannot do anything a talented child can do.

This is positively no reflection on the beautiful lucidity of Transvision's instructions. I was raised up in the old crystal-set era, when everybody was building his own radio, complete with ear-phones, and I was a bum in that league, too. I remember youthful companions who had difficulty making C-A-T come out "cat," but who were getting station KDKA on wireless wonders of their own manufacture, utilizing nothing more complicated than a few decadent thread-spools, bottle-tops and odd bits of bailing wire. It was a running source of bafflement, how they did it, because I am still the lad who is utterly confounded by the delicate nuclear physical task of replacing a blown fuse.

The ready-to-assemble television kit should be a solid cinch to supersede juvenile delinquency as a national pastime. When every child has one there will be small opportunity for window smashing or barnburning, because the chore of assembling Mr. Transvision's handy little gizmos should steer the mechanically untalented safely past the pitfalls of adolescence. And for the greasy, gifted urchin with a feel for the soldering-iron, the completed set will afford a mirror of adult human behavior which should shove the tot toward asceticism.

Any creature of tender years who viewed the late political carryings-on at the conventions would be apt, it seems to me, to forswear politics, singing, talking, walking, Henry Wallace, Clare Luce and Philadelphia forever more.

Blow to Adult Prestige
But I stray from the sermon. The large, pickable bone I have with Transvision, Inc., concerns the unbearable burden it has just strapped to sagging adult shoulders. The non-scientific grownup who has recently sweated out nuclear fission, with enormous damage to his prestige around the house, will surely burn no incense to Transvision, Inc.

I have struggled through the cross-examinations about why is the sky blue, why is the water wet instead of dry, why is the heat hot instead of cold, and why does the airplane fly. I have limped lamely through the wherefores of radar and why does the thunder make a noise and the unpredictable impact of green peaches on the juvenile stomach.

But now, when the tiny lad raises his innocent eyes to ask Uncle Robert: "Why does the rectified voltage from the 6x5 tube hafta be added to the normal B-plus voltage?" Why folks, I quit. My high inductive pulse stops, inducing a negative pulse at the start of the sawtooth, instigated, of course, by unduly high peaking. There is nothing to do but reach for the fireax, and frankly, my only problem is who or what to do with it.

G. I. Joe Takes On A 'New Look'

G I Joe's sleeve has a new look today under the newly-announced Army career plan which calls for a change of title and chevrons.

Under the new program soldiers formerly known as privates will be called recruits. A private first class will have the designation of private. Corporals will become privates first class; sergeants will change to corporals; the new sergeant rank will inherit the former status of staff sergeant; technical sergeants will become sergeants first class and master of first sergeants both will have the title of master sergeant.

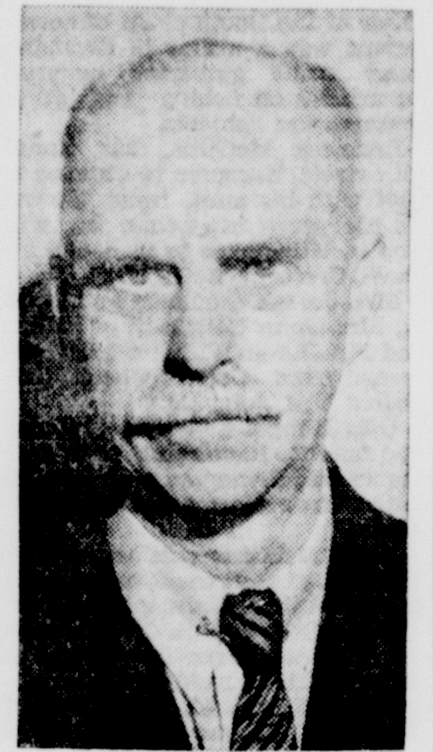

The new Army plan introduces a new philosophy in personnel management. From now on promotions will be made on the basis of ability and seniority in well-defined career fields.

In peacetime, training along career lines rather than military will be the Army's chief objective.

The primary purpose of the Army Career plan will be to give the enlisted man a well-rounded professional education within the broad job field in which he is best qualified.

Former combat men will wear insignia with a gold background. Their chevrons will be dark blue. Non-combat GIs will have insignia with a dark blue background with gold colored chevrons. Soldiers who were in combat will be

A. T. Rossow To Run For Representative On Democratic Slate

A. T. Rossow of Brampton, commonly known as the Chicago Farmer, has filed his petition for candidacy for county representative in the state legislature, on the Democratic ticket.

Rossow has lived for 37 years in Delta county, on the Days River road. He is active in state welfare work in Delta county and is Congressional District representative of the Townsend National Recovery act and is president of the Gladstone Townsend club.

Rossow studied civil engineering and architecture with the International Correspondence school in Scranton, Pa., and trade technical schools in Chicago. He has also studied bookkeeping at the Zion college in Zion, Ill.

He left the employe of Western Electric Telephone company at Hawthorne, Ill., where he was engineering inspector, to come to this area to regain his health. Rossow has raised a family of eight.

Lister to Build Tourist Cabins in Douglas, Arizona

Tourist cabins catering to asthma patients in or near Douglas, Ariz., will be the next business venture of George Lister, who recently sold out his Friendly Tavern at 1408 Ludington street to Carl G. "Gus" Sanders. He has been in business in Escanaba since 1939.

Lister has bought a school bus and rebuilt it as a trailer for a leisurely jaunt with his wife to Arizona. They will vacation for about three weeks in Wisconsin en route to the southwestern state.

"I intend to locate in Douglas and build some tourist cabins," he said here before leaving. "My idea is to provide inexpensive light housekeeping lodging for asthma patients who otherwise would have to pay high prices at institutions where all the services would be offered to them."

Lister said he had enjoyed living in the Upper Peninsula.

Pfc John Trombley Completes School In Kyoto, Japan

WITH THE EIGHTH ARMY IN KYOTO, JAPAN—Private First Class John K. Trombley of 218 North 13th street, Escanaba, Michigan, a member of the 71st Air Engineer Squadron, Ashiya Air Force Base, Kyushu, Japan, recently completed six weeks instruction and study in refrigeration at the Eighth Army Engineer School, Maizuru, Japan.

Pfc Trombley entered the Army on July 14, 1947 and after completing air force basic training at the Lakeland Air Base, San Antonio, Texas, he was sent overseas in November, 1947. He has been serving with his present unit since June 1, 1948. Prior to entering service he graduated from Escanaba Senior high school.

Scientists To Copy Iran Rock Message 2,400 Years Old

Ann Arbor, Mich., (AP)—A University of Michigan sponsored expedition will leave for Iran next week to copy completely, for the first time, a 2,400-year-old inscription on the rocky walls of Mount Behistun.

The expedition, co-sponsored by the American Schools of Oriental Research, and directed by George G. Cameron, who holds the institute's annual professorship of Baghdad, will leave New York for France, Turkey, and finally Iran.

The inscriptions, carved by order of Darius, king of Persia, 500 feet up Mount Behistun, are 100 feet above a sheer vertical wall.

Additional inscriptions are inaccessible from the ground and will be reached by lowering a party from a natural shelf 300 feet above.

Written in Elamite, old Persian and Babylonian, the writings tell the story of how Darius outwitted his enemies.

According to Cameron, the inscriptions have been examined twice, once by a Sir Henry Rawlinson, 100 years ago, and again in 1940 by an expedition sponsored by the British museum.

However, he says copies of the inscriptions made by these expeditions have long been known to be inadequate.

Cameron expects to begin operations at Mount Behistun in October.

In September, Cameron will join the University of Michigan faculty and automatically be on leave of absence until February of 1949 in order to complete the expedition.

In all about 8600 species of birds are known, belonging to more than 140 different families.

It's a good thing we don't have to make your telephone bigger every time we make it possible for you to call more people. You'd have to move out of the house to make room for the telephone.

Except for the increasing size of your telephone directory, you may not realize how the telephone system is being enlarged. We're adding thousands of new telephones every month.

These new telephones mean someone else you can call. It may be a butcher, a baker, a hardware store, a doctor or lawyer or druggist. Or it may be a friend or relative you've not been able to reach by telephone until now.

The point is that these additional telephones mean more errands your telephone can run for you . . . more jobs it can do for you. It's worth more every day.

There's No Time To Lose In Fight To Kill Communist Threat In U. S.

Patriotism And Golden Rule Must Be Practiced

(Twelfth and final article of a series revealing, for the first time, the full extent of Communism in the U. S., and the strategy for dominion of North America.)

By DON CAMERON
(Special to The Escanaba Daily Press)

This story of the Communist fifth column in America has been a study in treachery, compounded of an assassins' plot to murder democracy and a thieves' conspiracy to seize wealth and power. It is a story not yet ended.

There are sophisticated men in high places, from which they may be able to see farther than most, who predict that the last chapter will be written in blood. There are others, as wise and as favorably situated, who deny this.

Facing Facts

Having been impressed equally by their arguments pro and con, I have tried to keep clear of the tangled web of opinion and cleave to my reporter's trade of presenting facts. My purpose has been to indicate the extent to which agents of Red revolution here have managed to gain power with which they hope to smash the capitalist free enterprise system and set up a dictatorship subservient to the Kremlin.

To the best of my ability I have answered six questions calculated to reveal the true proportions of the Communist threat in America. The answers were pieced together, in the course of some months of time and some thousands of miles of travel, from personal observation and from information provided by statesmen and labor leaders, their foes, and records and documents never before made public.

It is time to add up the score.

THE QUESTIONS

(1) Is the United States, or are its neighbor nations, in any real and immediate danger from the Communists?

(2) What is Communism's actual strength in North America, and at what points is it strongest?

(3) Who are the real leaders of American Communism and what are their links with international revolutionary Communism?

(4) What would happen to our democratic institutions if, conceivably, a Red revolution were successful here?

(5) What are the circumstances that enable Communism to take root and flourish in our society?

(6) Is there a cure for Communism, and if so, of what does it consist?

THE ANSWERS:

(1) Yes, there is serious and perhaps immediate danger. A trained and disciplined army of undercover agents, responsive to direct commands from the Kremlin, maintains a constant state of alertness in strategic cities from coast to coast. Its leaders await only a favorable moment of crisis to launch a potentially devastating attack upon the very life of the nation.

There exists a carefully-drawn program of action by which the Red plan to take advantage of political and economic disturbances anticipated this year or next—disturbances they intend to instigate in some cases and in all cases to aggravate—with the single aim of bringing our system to the state of collapse so ardently desired by Stalin and his fellow plotters for world domination.

Top-level leaders in the United States and Canadian governments know this. In high circles there is more anxious planning for security and preparation for a possible armed conflict of the first magnitude than at any time since the late war emergency.

The Enemy Within

(2) There are 75,000 known Communists in the United States, 25,000 in Canada, 25,000 in Mexico, 20,000 in Costa Rica—and a husky 200,000 in Cuba. Counting smaller Central American and Caribbean groups, North America has around 360,000 Communist party members out of a total population of something under 200,000,000.

Membership figures do not tell the whole story, however. In the United States alone the party can count on at least 1,000,000 militant fellow travelers, plus perhaps 2,000,000 union men who blindly follow pro-Red leaders along the party line, plus other millions of men and women who in all innocence support Communist fronts masquerading as popular democratic organizations.

Significantly, 75 per cent of the basic Red strength in English-speaking America is found among foreign-language groups, with Slav peoples predominating. An alien ideology, Communism is most readily accepted by those from lands where individual freedom is not a part of the national tradition.

Kremlin Direction

(3) The real leaders of Communism in America—and around the world—are Joseph V. Stalin, premier of the Soviet Union, and his fellow members of the Red Politburo and the Central Executive Committee. Their orders are conveyed to titular leaders here through Soviet diplomats, trade representatives and secret agents. Andrei Gromyko, Russian delegate to the United Nations and non-resident minister to Cuba, who has just been recalled to Moscow, as the highest Communist authority in America was in close touch with United States and Latin American Reds, personally and through his numerous aides. Gerhard Eisler, the German Communist agent who was imprisoned last Summer and is subject to deportation on his release, directed all important underground operations.

Nominal party leaders—William Z. Foster, national chairman in the United States; Tim Buck in Canada; Dionisio Encina in Mexico—hold office only by the grace of Moscow, exercise little independent authority and are completely eclipsed by these foreign emissaries who speak directly from the Kremlin.

(4) What would happen to America if a Communist revolution should succeed here has been shown with grim clarity by what has happened recently to Czechoslovakia, and by events in other nations that have felt the weight of the hammer and the cutting edge of the sickle of Communism.

Slave-labor battalions, concentration camps and the execution squad for non-conformists, liquidation of whole sections of the populace considered inessential to the Communist scheme of things, police control of speech and actions, censorship of the press, restriction of religious liberty, political distortion of education, suppression of opposition parties, assassinations, suicides—the list is long and fills columns daily in our free press.

There is no reason to suppose that things would be different in the United States, that ours of all nations should be singled out for any moderate form of totalitarianism, if there were such a thing. More likely the Red rulers would employ especially severe measures to discourage manifestations of individuality and self-reliance—bourgeois virtues which are more prevalent here than in most other lands.

(5) The undeniable imperfections and injustices of our democratic system create the circumstances that enable Communism to take root and flourish in our society. The selfish shortsightedness of too many of our leaders, the preoccupation of too many plain citizens with their own affairs to the neglect of their neighbors, whose affairs may be in worse shape, are indelible. Notwithstanding that the capitalist system of free enterprise offers greater advantages to more people, with more freedom, than any other way of life now practiced—and that it is capable of as much improvement as the people care to bring about by sincere cooperation—multitudes are trapped in the gulf of despair that lies between the ideal and the reality.

The apostles of Red revolution tell half-truths that show only the dark side of the picture, and have just enough basis to carry weight with those who are unable or unwilling to see the other side.

Meanwhile, the Church and social institutions, infected with apathy and impersonality, grop for an adequate reply to the challenge. Lost and confused people, who have looked to them in vain for answers to their doubts and problems, offer a challenge which the Church is trying to meet.

They do, however, find plausible, fine-sounding answers held out by the Communists.

(6) There is no cure for Communism because Communism is not a disease, it is a symptom. It is the expression of the vast unrest that permeates all the people of the world, not excepting our own, as the result of the economic, moral and spiritual ills of our civilization.

What must be found is a cure for these ills—the disastrous wars, the terrible cycles of boom and bust, the neglect of the underprivileged.

There is a cure for these basic ills, and it is not the ruthless tyranny of Communism. It may be defined as a higher patriotism, a deeper love of country, an earnest wish for peace and well-being that transcends selfish interests and approximates the Christian ideal of the brotherhood of man.

A renaissance of patriotism of this type would do more than laws, suppression or indignation to stamp out the Red plague. It would turn all men and women of good will toward the building of a better, happier, healthier society.

Of course, it would leave here in America a little group of misfits and malcontents who still would shout for rebellion and still would dream of stealing wealth and power; but without their mass following of the embittered, the bewildered and the unthinking, they would be harmless.

These are the best answers I

Yacht Recovered From Lake Michigan Bottom

Green Bay, Wis. — The Ford Navy Yacht "El Roja" that grounded in late December on Rock Island three miles northeast of Washington Island, and sank in 55 feet of water when pulled off by the Coast Guard Cutter "Woodbine" has been recovered.

The El Roja was built in 1942 at the Ford Locomotive shops at Dearborn to Navy specification; the hull of heavy special steel, the upper works and deck houses of moulded duraluminum with all fittings stainless steel, and the decks being teak over steel. The overall length is 58 feet, beam 14 feet, draft 5 feet, fuel oil tanks hold oil for 3,000 miles of cruising. Its maximum speed is 61 miles per hour.

It was based at the Ford plant during the war where it was used as a training ship for the Ford Naval Reserve unit. After hostilities it was sold to J. A. Gentile of Detroit who was in the process of taking it to New Orleans where he intended to convert it into a trawler for Gulf of Mexico fishing. The boat contains a considerable cargo of tools and equipment.

Light Mistaken in Fog

The apparent cause of the grounding was the mistaking of the Jackson Harbor lights on Washington Island for the Potawatomi light on Rock Island in a heavy fog. As it was after the official close of navigation the boat's insurance had expired. A puncture in the hull under the engine and failure to close the ports to the five water-tight compartments caused the sinking.

In May the El Roja was purchased by Emmet Platten of Green Bay, where it is as is. After studying the different methods of raising it he decided to give the job to the Roen Steamship company of Sturgeon Bay. Captain John Roen took personal charge of every detail.

have been able to find, and within their limits I am satisfied of their validity. To them I would add one more answer to a question not considered at the beginning of this assignment but heard of late with increasing frequency. How much time have we?

There is no time to lose.

The End

ter of DePere he salvaged and refitted this cruiser and got several years of service from it. The second one was the former Jim Roosevelt, L. D. Smith sloop, the "Half Moon." Last year the Half Moon was entered in the hundred mile and four other races. It finished all of them, and won the Sturgeon Bay-Menominee race for Class A Green bay boats. It is being sailed frequently this summer and shows no signs of the immersion.

In Spanish the name El Roja means "The Red" a not too popular name right now, so Platten has changed the name to the "Sinecure" largely because he believes that in capable hands it will be an easy boat to handle and maintain. It is possible that auxiliary sails will be fitted before she takes off on a contemplated Mexican winter cruise.

The Hawaiian Islands and New Zealand have lost a great portion of their native fauna.

Mr. And Mrs. John Akkala, Eben, Return From Visit In Finland

Chatham — The same hardy courage and pioneering spirit of adventure which prompted Minnie Still and John Akkala to leave their homes in Finland forty-five years ago to come to America, the land of promise, sent them back again, at the ages of 72 and 74 respectively, for a three months visit. They left March 21 and returned to Eben July 13. While in Finland they visited both relatives and friends.

They found the Finnish people well-fed and well-clothed but with few luxuries. Bananas and oranges are almost unknown to the Finnish people, and Finnish children hardly know what candy is.

Rock River Pioneers

Mr. and Mrs. Akkala are pioneers members of Rock River township and the Eben community. They have lived on their 80-acre farm here since 1902. Last year they retired from farming and decided to take a trip back to Finland.

At their ages, such was quite an undertaking. Both are in the best of health, however, and are intensely interested in people and events.

After leaving March 21, they spent three days in New York with Mrs. Akkala's sister, Mrs. Hannah Emmet of New York city. They embarked on the Swedish liner, Gripsholm on March 26. They disembarked at Turku because the Helsingfors harbor was ice-bound.

From there they went to Alavus by train to visit two of Mr. Akkala's sisters who live in that small farming village. Shortly after their arrival Mr. Akkala was taken ill. After two weeks of treatment, in vain, he was taken to the state hospital in Seinajoki where he was hospitalized for 10 days. The doctor allowed Mrs. Akkala to remain at the hospital with her husband, night and day.

After 10 days, Mr. Akkala was completely recovered and the two proceeded on their visit. They enjoyed many car and horse and buggy rides about the country and trips in rowboats. From Alavus they took a train to Eivijervi, 500 miles away. There they visited a sister of Mrs. Akkala.

The Akkals brought back many souvenirs of Finnish handicraft as gifts for their children and grandchildren. They presented each of their children with a fringed linen table cloth made by Mrs. Akkala's sister during their visit. The thread for these was spun on a spinning wheel and the cloth was woven on a hand loom. One souvenir is a very old, hand-made pipe bowl which belonged to Mr. Akkala's grandfather.

Ice Machine Gives 32-Cake Jackpot

Santa Barbara, Calif. (AP)—A young man hit the jackpot here and almost got crushed with the proceeds.

What he wanted was a 25-pound cake of ice, so he put two dimes in the vending machine.

He got his cake of ice all right—followed in rapid succession by 31 more.

Intimidated by this incipient glacier, he dodged behind his car while the ice dealers wrung their hands.

When the deluge subsided, the young man tossed one chunk in his car and drove off. The ice dealers fell to work repairing the machine.

Injured Engineer In Coma 2001 Days, Longest In History

Cincinnati, (AP)—Patient "X," a former electrical engineer, entered his 2,001st day in total coma at Bethesda hospital Friday.

The period of unconsciousness is the longest known in medical history, physicians in charge of the case say.

The man was 50 years old when he was struck on the head by a pulley on Feb. 5, 1943, at the Wright Aeronautical corporation.

His physicians, who asked that their names and that of the patient not be disclosed, said patient "X" was struck on the right, frontal region of his head, cutting his right eyebrow.

Although conscious at the time he arrived at the hospital, patient "X" rapidly lost consciousness shortly afterward because of a blood clot between his skull and the outer envelope of his brain, one of the doctors said. They also explained:

"The clot accumulated so rapidly that before it was possible to evacuate it there had occurred circulatory changes at the brain stem (the central portion of the brain), which release the centers of the brain that activate standing."

"So the patient became rigid. At the same time, associated changes in circulation occurred which produced profound changes in the patient's level of consciousness. Consequently, he now exists at a low order of nervous activity without obvious mentation."

The blood clot was removed through a delicate operation shortly after he entered the hospital, the physicians said.

However, the highly specialized brain cells which the clot was touching already had been destroyed.

Patient "X" is "unusually healthy," the physicians say. He is tube fed through the nose, where all internal medicines also are given.

His hair continues to grow, periodically requiring a barber and a shave. He has aged little, his finger and toenails grow normally and his teeth are good, the doctors said.

Sometimes he snores and makes groaning sounds, although there is no indication of pain. His eyes will follow objects but if the doctors ask him to blink them or move a finger if he knows they are talking to him, he shows no signs of comprehension.

He has survived two attacks of pneumonia.

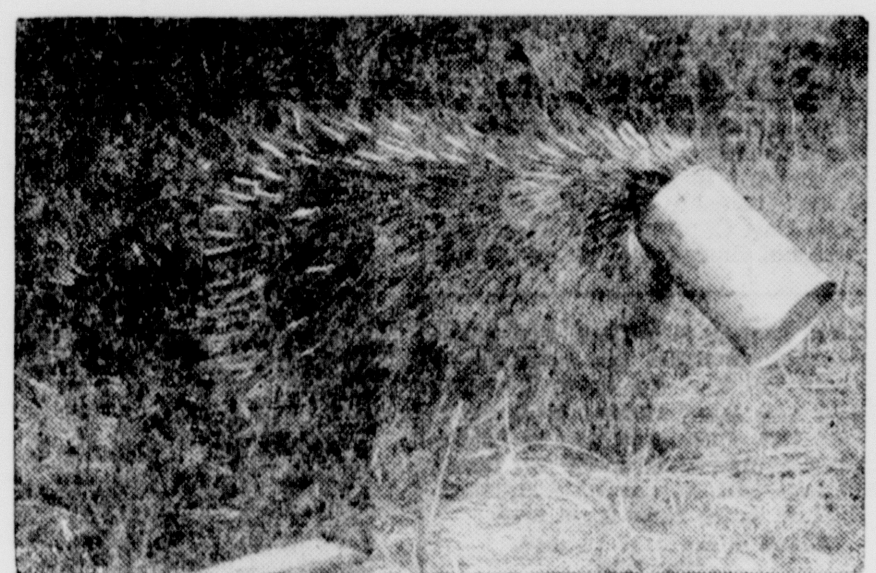

Patient "X" is an industrial case and has cost the industrial commission of Ohio $63,026.42 to date in workmen's compensation.

He has a wife and two sons. They asked that the name of the patient be withheld.

Little Brain, Big Quills Describe Pokey Porcupine

'CANNED' PORKY — This porcupine's taste for a bit of something salty trapped his head in a tin can. The "canned" porky was discovered in the woods by Gene Hesterberg, Escanaba, of the conservation department game division, who also made the photograph before jerking the can off its head.

The porcupine has an estimated 30,000 barbed quills for its defense and its needs every one of them because it has such a low IQ that it cannot shoot like arrows, contrary to a popular myth. If forced into battle it backs toward the enemy, swishing its short quill-packed tail. It has few enemies except man. The "porky's" slowness makes him an easy traffic victim on highways, and more of the creatures are killed by cars than with guns.

Dr. G. W. Bradt of the department of conservation game division reports that porcupines seem never to have been really abundant even in primitive times.

In pioneer days there was an unwritten law protecting porcupines since a man lost in the woods or without a gun could stave off starvation by killing one of the dull-witted creatures.

Today the porcupine is generally in disfavor among persons who have woods camps. For the "porky" has an insatiable appetite for salt, even in minute quantities. He will chew through a door and once inside gnaw every wooden article within reach, including the axe handle, table, chairs, or any other article handled by people or with the slightest briny flavor.

The porcupine is also called quill-pig, prickly-cub, porky hog and quiller. Men who find their camps damaged by the creature have a number of additional names. But they do not call the porcupine a "hedgehog," since true hedgehogs are small Old World animals akin to shrews and are in no way related to the "porky."

Dog owners find the porcupine a menace to their pets and hunters often have their dogs return with their faces and jaws stuck full of quills. The quills must be pulled out quickly, for each quill tends to work its way into the flesh. Not only does this cause festering and pain, but they may reach the body cavities and cause death.

Generally the porcupine lives in solitude, feeding on all sorts of vegetation in summertime and eating the bark and twigs of hemlock and poplar trees in winter. Slow and clumsy, the "porky" seldom roams far from its nest, which may be in a hollow tree or log, a hole in the rocks, or under the roots of a tree or stump.

Old "porky" has been cited as example of the creature that has reached a high degree of "social security" while sacrificing speed, ability, beauty, strength and intelligence. He is also an inoffensive isolationist, with a strong defense and a weak mind.

Fire, believed to have been caused by youngsters smoking cigarettes, destroyed a building belonging to Charles Isaacson, and caused a loss of old tires, batteries, and other commodities of an undetermined value, Sunday afternoon.

The fire was discovered about 2:00 o'clock by James Slining who saw smoke issuing from the building. He turned in the alarm immediately, but the fire had gained such headway that efforts to save the structure were futile. A brisk wind was blowing at the time and most of the fire fighting equipment had to be used in wetting down nearby piles of lumber belonging to the Northwoods Manufacturing Company.

Burning brands flew a considerable distance, but the lumber, due to the heavy rain of the previous night failed to ignite, except in one instance when coals fell into a hollow log. This was discovered in time to avoid any serious damage.

The building, 35 by 70 feet, was built about fifty years ago by the Barry Chemical Company. It was of sturdy construction and covered with corrugated iron. For several years it had been used as a saw mill and later was used by Charles Isaacson to store various kinds of salvage material. At the time of the fire the building contained among other goods, about 60,000 pounds of old tires, several electric motors, a quantity of rope and some storage batteries. The loss is of an intangible nature and Mr. Isaacson declined to place an estimate on it. The building, he stated could not be replaced for at least $3,000. The loss is total as there was no insurance on it.

New State Agency
Sifts Problems Of Beach Properties

By Robert E. Vores

Lansing, (AP)—Problems of the owners of inland lake and Great Lakes beach property would be one of the concerns of the proposed new state water resources agency.

The new state department will be sought at the next session of the Legislature by the groups working for a unified flood control program in Michigan. Although the proposed agency would be created primarily for flood control work; it would also handle such problems as beach erosion and the stabilization of inland lake levels.

Michigan has more than 3,000 miles of shoreline on the Great Lakes and the connecting waters. Most of this is in private ownership and Norman Billings, Conservation department hydrologist, estimates that the real estate value of this lake shore property totals more than $80,000,000.

Beach erosion, the washing away of the sand and undermining of cottages, has been a real source of worry to these property owners. Billings estimates that highly destructive erosion now is going on at at least 15 locations, periling more than 100 miles of shoreline.

Property owners aren't the only ones to suffer from this erosion. It also affects the resort towns that make their living from the beaches and the hundreds of thousands of vacationists who summer on Michigan's shoreline.

The Lake Michigan shoreline from Benton Harbor to Michigan City, Ind., has been the scene of some particularly destructive erosion in recent years. Citizens of Michigan and Indiana towns along that stretch of shore have organized to demand that the state and federal government do something about the problem.

This group and others believe a study should be made to determine the causes of such erosion and its most economical means of control. This would be one of the functions of the state water resources agency, which then could carry the problem to the federal government.

Owners of inland lake property also have their ups and downs with the rising and sinking of lake levels. High levels, generally during spring runoffs, cause damage to cottages and other lake-side property and flooding of nearby farm lands. Undesirable low levels, especially during resort seasons, cause unsightly beaches, odoriferous mud flats, loss of docking and warf facilities and often the destruction of fish spawning beds.

Michigan has more than 11,000 inland lakes. About 3,000 of these are suitable as resort locations. G. E. Eddy of the Conservation department geology division, estimates that approximately 1,000 of these have problems involving lake level functions. Eddy reports that to date his department has had appeals for help from property owners at more than 500 such lakes.

Levels in many of these lakes can be controlled by the building of dams, diversion of water from other sources, drilling for new

Old Work Bench Of Harness Shop
In Manistique Marks 50 Years In Business For Charles Peterson

By ROSE LACHAPPELLE

An old becarved work bench in a rather run-down building dating from at least 50 years ago is about all that remains of the trade of Charles Peterson, 126 Main street, in Manistique.

Peterson, who is now 82, came to Manistique in 1892 from Chicago, where he had worked with the Coplan family in the upholstery business. When he came here, the first move was to open a harness shop.

Made Many Harnesses
Until two years ago he was still making harnesses with hand-stitched leathers, and repairing work harnesses. In his hey-day the somber fellow made an average of 36 sets of harnesses per year. A set means two harnesses, for a team of work horses.

Most of his work was with the Chicago Lumber company which was perhaps one of the largest timber operators in the Manistique area. Mr. Peterson also toiled harnesses for the Western Lumber company and the Mix Lumber company, and later for private jobbers and farmers.

Two things, says Mr. Peterson, put the "kibosh" on his trade. Number one of course is the coming of the gas engine which replaced Old Dobbin on the farm, in the woods and as a taxi servant. The other was the breakdown of big-time timber jobbing.

His shop is now filled with badly worn upholstered furniture brought to him for repair and re-upholstering. Whether plying the needle, through cloth or leather, in single strands in a variety of colors, or waxed groups of strands, Mr. Peterson still does a neat job.

He was talking the other day with Edward Havlicek, of Flint, who grew up in Manistique. Havlicek asked to see his fingers. Sure enough, the callouses, from years of pushing an awl through leather and of pushing a needle through the hole to form a double strand of stitching, were gone.

Charlie showed Havlicek his home-made vise for holding pieces of leather in place, his old workbench chewed up with years of service, and some halters, bridles, collars and lines which he had made. We won't say for sure, but Mr. Havlicek, who is now in the executive offices of the Buick motor company in Flint, looked very much at home sitting on the seat of the old vise.

Edward Halgren of Manistique was in business with Mr. Peterson when they had a going harness shop. They bought out the similar trades of Dr. Sellers, Manistique veterinarian, and of Joseph Boncher.

Martin S. Quick and George Orr were the big wheels for the Chicago Lumber company in Manistique. In the early years of operations pine was the chief product from the Manistique region. The logs were cut in winter by crews under Frank Cookson and were then floated down the Indian and Manistique Rivers to the mills.

Stamped Log Marks

If you are like many others and wonder how one company kept its timber clear of other companies' timber holdings in the water, we have a bit of information which may please you. The woodworkers took turns with a huge iron stamp hammer bearing the impression of the owning company. With it, they marked the raw ends of the logs. When the logs arrived at their destination, crews pushed them into the proper company chute.

Later hardwood was jobbed off the Manistique region, and this underground water supplies and prevention of seepage. Michigan now has laws on its books dealing with inland lake levels. Eddy believes these need a complete overhauling.

The revision of these laws supervision of lake level engineering projects and research into the best methods for controlling lake levels would be another job for the proposed state water resources agency.

was too heavy to float. Much of that timber was hauled by horse and sleigh and railroads.

Until recently the remnants of an old saw which operated on the Indian Lake could be seen at Indian Lake beach. The "debbs" has since been removed. This old saw, a side wheeler, operated on the lake to assist in driving logs.

In winter, Havlicek and Peterson recalled, woodmen would go out, and in water waist hoots the log booms with cant hoots and peevies, from ice barriers. "That's how your grandfather made 15 to 20 dollars a month," he laughed.

Recalls Sawmill Fire

The mill of the Chicago Lumber company, Peterson recalled, was destroyed by fire on Dec. 14, 1907. Havlicek was with the Manistique Fire department at the time. One fellow who is still well-remembered in Manistique, Henry Hamill, died in the mill fire, presumably caused by friction.

Patty Miles, 87, veteran Manistique lumberman and stable owner, is a buddy of Mr. Peterson. The two like to get together and talk about the old days when the horse was milky and when you bought your food, clothes, and hardware with coupons at a company store. Patty Miles Land, on the Indian River, is a tribute to the veteran lumberman.

The Park Hotel in Manistique occupies the old Chicago Lumber company store, and the Chicago Lumber company hardware was where the Cookson hardware now stands.

"Not a great many foreign born people came to work in the timber business in Manistique," the men recalled. They did mention though that with the opening of the old tannery in the early 1900's many Macedonians came to town. The fellows still remember the outdoor ovens and other "different" customs of the immigrants.

The White Marble company also added to the prosperity of the town of 6,000 in those years. Today all that remains of their enterprise is a large quarry hole, filled with water, which is the delight of daring swimmers.

Man Who Burned Up
U. S. Money Retires
After 46-Year Run

Washington, (AP)—The man responsible for burning more money than anybody in history is quitting it for good.

He is Benton C. Gardner, retiring after long service as chief of the treasury's currency redemption division.

For 46 years, his job has involved sending to the incinerator paper money in such bad shape it had to be replaced with new bills.

During that time, he's sent so many billions up in smoke no complete tally is available. But last year alone, it must have amounted to more than $3,000,000,000. That's how much fresh money the treasury's printing and engraving bureau turned out to keep the supply in good shape.

As if you didn't know before, it's easier to get rid of money than it is to make it.

The government keeps a couple or so thousand employees busy turning out fresh cash. It keeps one—a colored man named Edgar Gray, jr.—to shovel the old stuff into the fire.

BAND TO PLAY
AT BLANEYWill Be Guests Of Big
Resort Sunday

The Manistique Municipal Band under direction of Ferdinand Gorsche, will go to Blaney Park Sunday afternoon to play a special concert on the lawn in front of the Inn.

In case of adverse weather conditions, the concert will be held in the Paul Bunyan Play house.

Fred Heltman, member of the band's board of directors, states that "This band is going to be used to publicize Manistique and Schoolcraft county and the concert at Blaney is one of the many to be given this season."

Heltman states that the band is going to visit various parts of the area to get acquainted, not only with visitors from various parts of the country, but with home folks as well. "I believe folks like to associate with friendly people and our guests will be inclined to come back and bring their friends," says the Bear Trap Lodge owner.

Members of the band will be guests of Stewart Earle, Blaney owner, and Joe Bachunas, operator of the resort, while they fill the engagement.

Several Motor
Mishaps Reported
By Local Police

A series of minor motor mishaps over the weekend are reported by the state and local police.

The most severe accident occurred on Highway U. S. 2 Sunday afternoon when a car driven by Miss Eunice Haven, of Ann Arbor left the road and turned over. A trailer, attached to Miss Haven's car, started to sway and she lost control of the car. The driver was treated at the Shaw hospital for cuts and bruises, none of which were regarded as serious.

There were three mishaps on Deer street Saturday evening, all of them blamed on the slippery paving due to the rain.

About 9:20 a car driven by Leonard H. Flodin hit the rear end of one driven by E. R. Monroe, and this car, in turn, struck the rear end of one driven by a car with an Indiana license. No one was hurt but fenders and grills on the Flodin and the Monroe cars were damaged.

Minor damage was sustained when cars driven by Vern McManus of Steuben and Cassius Bebo, 1509 Ludington Street, Escanaba collided at the intersection of Deer and Chippewa streets. Damage was nominal.

Late Saturday evening, a car driven by Emma Kasbohm, R. I. Manistique, and Oscar Nelson, 620 Manistique, scraped fenders at the intersection of Deer and Houghton streets, Nelson, according to the report, was making a left turn at the time.

Marquette Assn. of Michigan Baptists
Held Confab Here

Arthur Briese,
King Of Satire,
Rotary Speaker

American ways and manners were satirized by Art Briese, noted humorist of Hot Springs, Ark., at the regular meeting of the Manistique Rotary Club Monday noon.

The speaker, introduced as Merton Bates, a British sociologist visiting America to gather data for a book, carried on the deception so effectively that a number of Rotarians present, who had played golf with him a few days ago, failed to recognize him.

In the course of his talk he alluded to a number of things that had his fellow Americans a bit embarrassed and then, when he had rubbed it in to a "jolly old queen's taste," and had his listeners a bit inclined to rebel, he announced that he had never been in England in his life.

Although his talk was wit and satire of the rarest sort, there was much in his presentation that was serious and impressive.

One reference, particularly effective, was his statement that the Rotary Club of Rotterdam, Holland, never missed a meeting during the war, in spite of the fact that the city was a shambles and International Rotary was under a Hitlerian interdiction. He recommended such adherence to principle on the part of local Rotarians.

He told a story about a man who had shuffled off this mortal coil and strayed to the nether regions. Here he came upon a banquet where food was available, but where the diners were starving because their elbows were stiff and they couldn't feed themselves. He later came upon another banquet where the diners were under the same handicap but were well fed. They managed to get fed by feeding each other. Your community is what you make it, he said.

Mr. Briese is vacationing at Indian Lake.

Women's Golf

By Joe Reichler Associated Press Sports Writer Major league baseball fans, goggle-eyed over the closest race in American league history, finally have begun to realize that the National is having a whizzer of its own.

Although the older circuit does not boast a one-game difference among the first four clubs as does the American, every indication points to a real battle royal in the final two months of the season.

Slowly but surely, the New York Giants, St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers are creeping up on the pace-setting Boston Braves.

Yesterday it was the Cardinals' turn to gain ground on the leaders. Enjoying their biggest batting day of the year, the Redbirds teed off on five New York pitchers for 20 hits to humiliate the Giants 21-5.

The victory enabled the Cards to virtually tie for third place with the losing Dodgers, who own a slim one percentage point buffer over the Redbirds.

Del Wilber and Enos Slaughter led the Cards' assault. Wilber collected three hits and drove in five runs. Slaughter, who got on base in his first five times at bat, also collected three hits.

The Phillies and Pirates enjoyed a day of rest in the only American league game played at night, the St. Louis Browns got off to an early 7-0 lead, then staved off a late rally by Washington to defeat the Senators 7-5.

Little Miss Gadget Returns to Mother Who Abandoned Her

Detroit, Aug. 3 (P)—"Little Miss Gadget", the two-year-old child abandoned by her desperate mother, was returned to her today.

At the same time the mother, Miss Eva Simons, was placed on five years' probation by Recorder's Judge John P. Scallen.

Tigers Sign Bonus Schoolboy Catcher

Detroit, Aug. 3 (P)—The Detroit Tigers today announced the bonus signing of Henry Frank House, Jr., Bessemer, Ala., schoolboy catcher and one of the most sought-after youngsters in baseball.

The bonus price was reported to be the highest ever paid in the history of baseball. One report pinned it at $75,000.

General Manager Billy Evans declined to reveal the amount of House's bonus, but said eight or nine clubs were after him.

The last big bonus player signed by the Tigers was Dick Wakefield, who was paid $55,000 to sign in 1941.

Detroit Lions Sign Mervin Pregulman

Alma, Mich., Aug. 3. (P)—Cheered by the signing of center Pregulman, Detroit Lions Coach Alvin N. (Bo) McMillan today planned more workouts to get the squad in top shape for the National football league campaign.

The 25-year-old former Michigan star became a Lion certainly only a few minutes before the team's first serious drill yesterday. A holdout for weeks, McMillan said Pregulman agreed to renewal of a one-year contract just preceding the practice session.

Specific terms of the agreement were not announced.

It has been 20 years since an American association pennant has waved in Victory Field, Indianapolis, but the way the Indians are outtracing their pursuers indicates 1948 may be a banner year. Largest U. S. Liner America Returns to Private Ownership

Hoboken, N. J., Aug. 3. (P)—The largest merchant ship ever built in the United States, the liner America, which traveled some 500,000 miles on war duty, makes its first trans-Atlantic voyage tomorrow as a privately-owned vessel.

The ship, operated by the U. S. Maritime commission since 1943, was returned to private ownership yesterday.

Operated by the United States lines, she will sail for Cobh, Southampton and Havre.

The America, in constant service since 1940, was unable to enter U. S. lines service after it was built because of the European war, and the government later requisitioned the vessel as a troopship.

Birds are more closely related to crocodiles than the latter are to turtles.

against the west and the multi-billion dollar Marshall plan. The official Russian newspaper in Berlin asserted the Russians alone fulfilled the Potsdam agreement and demanded that all Germany be modeled after the Russian zone; that is, turned over to the Communists.

Air Lift Expensive

The air lift supplying of Berlin continued. The U. S. Air Force took in 40,411 tons of food and supplies last month and the British were not far behind. The expense was enormous, and coal movements were a trickle.

The Communists of Hungary put in Arpad Szakasits as president after ousting Zoltan Tildy.

Japanese Communists stepped up attacks on the U. S. and Gen. MacArthur, who had forbidden a government strike. Greek troops, with their army command, shuffled on suggestion of the U. S., captured the southern anchor of Communist lines in the Grammos mountains near Albania.

The British quarreled with the Russians at the Danube conference in Belgrade, accusing them of dominating the meeting through control of seven states.

Details of the Jerusalem truce were discussed there by the U. N. mediator with the Israeli military governor of the Jewish part of the city. Syria watched the results of the Moscow talks to see whether to put the Berlin question before the security council. Russia and the U. S. disagreed on arms limitations plans.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 3. (P)—Two of 31 persons arrested in a probe of gambling at the Kaiser-Frazer Corp. Willow Run plant began jail terms today.

Nine others paid fines and were placed on probation for varying periods by Circuit Judge James R. Breakley, Jr.

The nine were sentenced yesterday on charges of possessing policy tickets. Arrests in the roundup began May 22.

Ousted Police Head At Cedar Springs Held as Embezzler

Cedar Springs, Mich., Aug. 3. (P)—Harvey Townes, Jr., 24-year-old former police chief, was held today on a warrant charging him with embezzlement of state drivers license funds.

Townes, who resigned as police chief early this year at the request of the city council, was arrested on the embezzlement charge last night.

Kent county deputy sheriff Arnold Pigorsch said the ex-official refused to give any reason for taking the money.

NO MURDER VICTIM

Lexington, Mich., Aug. 3. (P)—John M. Fitzwallace, 58-year-old Dearborn resident whose body was found Friday in an abandoned barge, died of natural causes, it was reported today by Dr. A. James French, a University of Michigan pathologist.

Officers at first believed Fitzwallace might have been a murder victim.

Hunt For Reds Welcomed By Idle Congress

patched up another weak spot in their political armor on the civil rights issue.

Mr. Truman dared them in his Democratic convention acceptance speech to pass a civil rights bill.

Aided by Southern Democrats, Republicans tried to prove in the Senate yesterday that next to nothing short of a weeks-long, exhausting, continuous session can break a full fledged filibuster.

Mr. Truman said they could limit debate if they wanted to and pass a bill.

Bill Appears Dead

The Republicans made a show of trying.

They offered a debate-curb motion. But Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), presiding on a painful political spot, ruled it out of order.

The Michigan senator said he didn't want to, but had to under the Senate rules. He explained that such a motion couldn't be brought up unless the Senate actually had a bill before it.

What the southerners were filibustering against was only a motion to take up a bill banning the collection of state poll taxes in federal elections, a measure Mr. Truman said he would like to see passed.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) appealed Vandenberg's ruling. The southerners started filibustering again on the appeal. Still later they lost, 58 to 13, a move by Senator Olin Johnston (D-S. C.) to adjourn Congress Wednesday. Thus nobody gained an inch.

Taft took pains to announce to the Senate that this showed there was no way the Senate could get a vote on the issue "except by physical exhaustion—by keeping the Senate in session day and night."

This was not the time to do that, he said. But he promised that the Republicans will move to change the rules next January so that debate can be limited any time a majority wants to do it.

Until then, the anti-poll tax bill looks as dead as the proverbial doornail.

Ohio Man Indicted As Mad-Dog Killer In Murder Of Six

Mansfield, O., Aug. 3. (P)—Robert M. Daniels, participant in the killing of six people has been indicted on three counts of first degree murder.

The indictment yesterday charged him with the slaying of a Mansfield reformatory superintendent, John E. Niebel, his wife, Nolandia, and their 21-year-old daughter, Phyllis.

Arraignment on the indictments is scheduled for tomorrow.

Daniels, surviving partner of a two-man reign of terror in which six persons were slain, has been in custody of Mansfield authorities since last Thursday. A Van Wert court ruled Mansfield should have priority in trying him for the Niebel slayings.

Daniels also is wanted in Columbus for the murder of Earl Ambrose, a tavern keeper, and in Tiffin for two other slayings.

His partner, John C. West, was killed in a police road block at the same time of Daniels' capture. Daniels confessed the Niebel slayings, but blamed the Tiffin and Columbus killings on his trigger happy partner.

Arraigned in Mansfield municipal court last Friday in a preliminary hearing on the Niebel murder charges, Daniels pleaded guilty. Under Ohio law, he must be tried by three judges if he again pleads guilty to the grand jury indictments.

California Group Gives Home to 100 Displaced Orphans

Los Angeles, Aug. 3. (P)—A religious-humanitarian group has completed plans to give a Southern California haven to some 100 European displaced orphans.

The United States European Evangelical commission has arranged for use of a 196-acre farm near Santa Paula, and hopes, said the Rev. R. D. Niles yesterday, to be able to care for approximately 50 boys and 50 girl orphans from abroad.

Dr. Niles, western chairman of the commission, said his group would like to bring to California the 29 Baltic refugees who recently landed in Boston after crossing the Atlantic in a 64-foot schooner. They would be employed, he said, in completing a huge, unfinished hotel on the ranch property, and then could doubtless find work in agriculture.

The Evangelical commission has arranged for use of portions of the farm facilities from the International Christian Institute, an unrelated organization but one with similar aims.

Community Chests Aid USO Revival

Detroit, Aug. 3. (P)—Henry Ford II, national campaign chairman for Community Chest Red Feather drives this Fall, today asked local committees throughout the country to include the newly reactivated USO in their drives.

Defense Secretary Forrestal had suggested earlier that fund raising for the USO, now in the process of reorganization, be taken over by Community Chests.
